Planning for the Stork's Arrival

Among those things which all women should know of, and many of them do, is a splendid external application sold in most drug stores under the name of "Mother's Friend." It is a penetrating liquid and many a mother tells how it so wonderfully aided them through the period of expectancy.

Its chief purpose is to render the tendons, ligaments and muscles so pliant that nature's expansion may be accomplished without the intense strain so often characteristic of the period of expectancy.

At any rate it is reasonable to believe that since "Mother's Friend" has been a companion to motherhood for more than half a century no more timely advice could be given the inexperienced mother than to suggest its daily use during expectancy.

Ask at any drug store for "Mother's Friend," a penetrating, external liquid of great help and value. And write to Bradfield Regulator Co., 302 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their book of useful and timely information to expectant mothers. It contains many suggestions that are of interest to all women.

OCALA SOCIAL AFFAIRS

Jacksonville Golfers in the City

A team composed of proficient golfers from the Florida Country Club, Jacksonville, arrived today and will remain in the city until tomorrow, returning home on the 4:10 limited. Tomorrow a 36-hole match game will be played on the links of the Ocala Country Club, between the visitors and ten members of the local club. Three rounds will be played in the morning and one in the afternoon.

Pitted against the expert visitors will be Clarence Camp, Herbert Lattner, Frank Drake, Phil Robinson, Stephen Jewett, L. W. Duval, G. K. Robinson, J. M. Thomas, I. F. Bennett and R. K. Robinson.

Two weeks ago Ocala played Jacksonville in the latter city and was badly defeated, therefore considerable interest is being centered in the game tomorrow. This afternoon the visitors familiarized themselves with the links by playing a number of rounds and several members of the home team put in an extra hour or two of practice.

The Jacksonville team expects to be ten strong. Arriving today were E. M. Sanderson, J. H. Tucker, Jr., W. I. Anderson, C. R. Wilcox, Geo. C. Perkins, J. W. Spratt and L. F. Baya, and the others will come tonight. They are guests at the Ocala House.

Mrs. J. B. Borland, Mrs. W. T. Dupree, Mr. and Mrs. William Tonner, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Rice, Mrs. Chote, Mrs. Paine and Mr. Harry Borland, all of Citra, were in the city today.

Mrs. H. C. Dozier returned today from Orlando, where she was the fortnight guest of Dr. Dozier's sister, Mrs. Sylvan McElroy. Mrs. Dozier was the guest of honor at a number of pretty social affairs and was an admired visitor at a number of other parties.

Miss Ethel Haycraft will leave the last of the week for Inverness to spend the month of May with her cousin, Mrs. G. I. Singleton.

Mrs. Charles Calvert, who has been visiting Mrs. Mary Eggleton for two weeks, will leave tomorrow for her home in Orlando. Mrs. Calvert was a visitor to Ocala twenty years ago, and during her visit has renewed a number of pleasant acquaintances.

Mrs. E. L. Carney will leave tonight for Tallahassee for a fortnight visit with Governor and Mrs. Park Trammell.

The Woman's Auxiliary board of the Marion County Hospital held a short business meeting this morning at the home of Mrs. W. K. Zewadski.

Monday evening in St. Petersburg the Echo Club gave a delightful entertainment, and among those taking part was Miss Opheila Gray, who gave a reading, her selection being "How the Water Came Down at Lodore."

Mrs. W. T. Gary has received the sad news that her mother, Mrs. W. F. Yocum, is very sick at her home in Tallahassee. Mrs. Gary expects to leave tomorrow to remain with her mother until she recovers.

The many friends of Mr. J. M. Barco will be pleased to know that he is feeling much better today, after a serious siege of sickness the past week.—Clearwater Sun.

Mr. Heron Todd has recovered from his attack of rheumatism sufficiently to leave the hospital.

SAM TOOK A MEAN REVENGE

Sam Washington, colored, was arraigned in the recorder's court this morning, the charge being fighting. After hearing the evidence in the case and what outside information he could get, Recorder Izlar referred the case to the county court, as it was a clear case of mayhem, and did not come under his jurisdiction.

The facts in the case are these: A negro man by the name of Jim Shelton was sparking Sam's girl, and Sam was powerful jealous. Sam went to her house and peeped through the blinds and saw Jim kissing his girl to beat the band. They were sitting on a trunk. Sam looked and his ire, to see those two kissing so hard when he should have been there on that trunk instead of Jim. He could stand it no longer and rushed in and grabbed Jim by the shoulder and rammed his head back against the wall until his mouth flew open. Then Sam made a grab at the mouth that had so lately been taking the honey that belonged to him, got Jim's full and manly lip in his mouth, literally bit the whole thing off, and it is said he swallowed it, as it can't be found.

Jim came to court with his face in bandages, unable to talk, but he made eloquent signs, and the signs don't look good for Sam, unless Sam carries for considerable time in the gang.

Runaway June

of fourteen policemen, something struck him as familiar in the way this one held a stick forefinger in the deep dimple of his chin. It was Officer Toole again.

"Sure," said Officer Toole, with remarkable promptness. "She went by here not a minute ago. Right that way." And he pointed up the hill to way Officer Morrissey; then as Blye started off, panting, he held his side. "Oh, well it was dull times on the beat these nights!"

The dusk had deepened into darkness when Officer Moran's palm proved not broad enough to carry away the grin from under his yellow mustache, and the grin, escaping, broadened into a huge laugh.

Blye stood it with remarkable quietness.

"It seems to me I've been furnishing a little amusement for the boys," he murmured, frowning.

"You have," laughed Moran. "It's what in Scotland they call 'chasing the gowk.' As for the girl you mentioned, and he swung his club happily. "I don't suppose one of us has ever laid eyes on her."

Blye's black eyes dwelt on Moran piercingly; then his suave smile came. "Have a cigar." And he passed over one which Officer Moran kept for Christmas.

Blye stifled smiling as he walked away, and his eyes narrowed in concentrated thought. He smoked his black Vandyke with his long, lean, white fingers. They had had their joke with him, these thick policemen. They had made him dash madly from corner to corner, over many weary blocks, but without knowing that they were doing so they had convinced him of one thing—that June lived in this vicinity and that they all knew of her.

He was passing the corners as he arrived at this uncertainty. The corners were a tangled knot of street and alley intersections where one might angle off in almost any direction and go nowhere.

Ned Warner at that moment was sending a score of detectives into this neighborhood.

Tired and half famished, Blye ate his delayed dinner in company with the vivacious brunette Tommy Thomas and the white mustached, pink faced Olin Cunningham and with a heavy, silent, thick eyelidded man who wore short cropped hair on his big round head.

Tommy and Cunningham and Blye sat for some time together after the big man had left. They were evidently planning something.

Finally all three went out and stepped into Blye's luxurious limousine. Before they had gone very far Blye, sitting by the girl, leaned toward her and began talking to her in low tones. By and by the trace of a smile came to her lips.

In a tastefully furnished drawing room a kindly looking woman held the bubbling Tommy's hand between both her own while they talked. There were both sadness and loneliness in Mrs. Villard as she drew Tommy to a seat on the couch beside her, but she had spirit, too, for she displayed a most eager interest in the beautiful portrait of June Warner, which presently peered up at her from inside the lid of June's little gold watch.

When Tommy rejoined the men in the brilliantly lighted limousine she handed Blye June's watch with a triumphant laugh.
